The Brazos School for Inquiry and Creativity does not discriminate in the admission process based on sex, national origin, ethnicity, religion, disability, academic ability, artistic ability, athletic ability or the school district the child otherwise would attend under state law. The school's decision to admit an applicant can be withdrawn if the school determines that the applicant provided false information on the admissions application, or that a review of the applicant's education records indicate that the student should be placed in a grade level for which there are no spaces available.
